For Immediate Release 15 December 2006

Dawmed Systems Plc

Dawmed Systems Plc's operating subsidiary company, Dawmed International Limited ("the Company"), has issued legal proceedings against a trade debtor, who supplies ancillary products direct to a portion of the Company's customer base, for the recovery of unpaid invoiced commission owed to it totalling some £146,000 and for specific performance of the debtor's obligation under the established contract to inform the Company of all subsequent commissions earned to enable the Company to raise the appropriate further invoices, some of which are attributable to the year ended 30 September 2006.

The Company has been advised by Counsel that, on the information available at present, its prospects of success are sufficiently good to warrant an application for summary judgement. Accordingly, Dawmed Systems Plc will delay the publication of its audited accounts for the year ended 30 September 2006 until such time as this action has been resolved, or its outcome has become sufficiently clear.

In other respects the Directors are happy to report that the overall performance is in line with their expectations as anticipated in the Chairman's Statement in the 2006 Interim Report and Accounts.
